

Digital technology company is looking for Slovenian partner

Plurallion (plurallion.com) is a digital technology company building and running e-commerce platforms for B2B2C communities in the CIS markets (former USSR), the region with 300 mln. population and USD 3 trln. economy, making it the 2nd largest emerging economy after China.

We are active in the following segments:

- education and science;
- food and agriculture;
- health and wellness;
- living space and personal technology;
- SME business services;
- social life/hobbies and entertainment.

In each segment Plurallion established a vertical providing digital tools and e-commerce solutions for consumers, professionals and brands in the CIS region.

We help our users to build their own professional and social teams (posse) to support and advance their professional and social life. Our business principles are: pluralism (Diverse Stakeholders), localism (Local Choices) and voluntarism (Big Society).

We are looking for Slovenian ICT/digital companies both in B2B and B2C sectors that would like to expand their offerings to the CIS region with the support of a local partner.
